Unfortunately, while the problem may be dated simply there is no simple volution. The islation receivably is a compound of many devices, including price and wage control, investment in government securities, and taketon, Most complicated of all the devices is taxation. due largely to the fact the government lacks a well articulated taxation policy. Instead of being able to concentrate on raising reverse. in other words, its attention must be given fret to development of their tax devices, with the political complications that invariably arrewhen new segments of the population are alfected by invation.

Congressmen, proverbially leary of the polltical consequences of raising taxes, may take comfort from the people's readiness to go the limit in any plan to avert inflation. Taxes sufficient to keep prices from breaking through the controls established for public protection are as integral a part of economic stabilization as rent court ga or price collegs. Expeas purcharing power must be alphoned off anto the place where morey is needed most-the war. Insofar as is humanly possible the diphening must be equitable; for example, it should make allaw unces for the fact that salaries have not increased in proportion to the increase in wages

But the pointed axiom that it is political suitide to favor on increase in taxes should be chelved for the distance. The political an dethis time would be failure to take the steps neccasery to prevent inflation.

Educational Lag

ALL OVER this country men and women and boys and girls are beginning to wonder why it should take upward of 25 years to turn out a college educated individual. If the college course can be shortened for war, why con't it be shortened for peace. Furthermore, what about elementary and high school courses?

In the current issue of Commonweal, the views of a number of educators on this subject. are presented in an article by Bonasenture Schwinn I; is surprising to learn how longand how futilely-the matter has been againted. At present the most vigerous agitation comes from University of Chicago, which is taking steps to discontinue conferring the bachelor's degree after the senior year of college and give it, instead, at the end of the sophomore year Thereafter, the holder of the degree eather would go on to graduate work or, equipped with a degree, would go to work. He would not be less well educated than his prederessers. who worked four years as collegians to get the r bachelors' degrees, but he would be through two years earlier. The student preparing for a profestional career, instead of spending a quarter of a century getting ready to start, would have at least two more years added to the beginning of their post-school lives.

It is too soon to guess how long it may take to overcome educational lag; the record shows it has been talked about at least a century, without result. But certainly it is significant that no one seems able to explain why it takes four years to finish high school, instead of three, or even two-except that it always has taken that long.

Need Seen To Give Airmen Share of Driver's Seat in War Planning.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE argument about air power question on waich airmen need represents the kind of proprofessional men which will in withed by laymen. For this is not I paign, a controversy between popular enters who have eaught the pub-Le magnation and the reasing admirals and generals who have martered the art or war. It is not a dispute between the amateurs. and the experts but in fact a controversy at the highest level of midiary thinking, and upon the fisher hang some of the gravest of all quest, so of strategy and p the ind of oversmpt too cross.

The best way, I think, to begue thinkly about the problem s to realize that no competent then doubts that importance of per power or thinks the surface navies and land armies are obsoldte. The real question is how all arms shall be used, and more specifically which of the three services shall determine the strategeral plan by which land, sea and air power shall be co-ordinated. Neither the Russians nor the Chinese have this problem because there is no question whatever for them that their ground armies are central and paramount. For them the air and the sea are obviously auxiliary to their land forces Different for Islands

But for Great Britain and America the problem does exist because neither of us has a land front against the enemy which can be reached over land from the training centers and the arsenals. Great Britain and America are islands, and therefore the question as to how we thall fight this war, where we shall make our bases, where we shall land, and how we study orvelop our offense is a much more

They feel that the war in Europe from the British Isles to the Middie East is a case of a Ilitie but not ensuch of everything and, because of the contending pulls of the professional services, not clear'y one thing rather than an-navy has dominated the other two services, and that, though its plan involves an increasingly heavy demand upon our air power, the essential conception is in the old tradition of the navy. The event will show what it will at the crux of the saie if we let show. But for future reference we may ask ourselves quietly whether we should have the kind of commitment we now have if. in the original conception of this campaign, the nir strategists had had an equal or a greater voice than the naval strategists.

It is a significant fact that in all the discussion about unity of command on the west European front. the idea has never been examined of selecting an American air gen-eral or a British air marshal as generalissimo. Yet why should it not be examined when we realize that the only offensive blows being struck now are by air power, that no new landing can be made without air power, that the choice of landing places must be guided by their usefulness to air power as the primary weapon of offense and defense.

This is not said to promote the appointment of an airman to the supreme command, though there are airmen available who ought seriously to be considered. It is said to emphasize the fact that in our peculiar strategical situation. it ought to be just as conceivable that the theory of the campaign should be dominated by an air general as by a ground general or an admiral.

We do not think it at all strange complicated one. And this is at that the navy should have ground

We aught, therefore, not to find it strange that the air force might use surface navies and ground forces to carry out its operations, and it might just be true that for the war we are fighting the sirmen ought to be in the driver's seat. It may be true that they have a sounder view of the milltary geography of this war, and that their conception of where to invest our forces, and what positions it will pay best to occupy and exploit, is at least as likely to be correct as that of officers trained in the surface navies and the ground forces.

Son Puzzle Mother By The Unifest Press.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y .- Mrs. Tennie Henedict has received a 'reassuring' letter from her son. Donald, a Japanese prisoner of war in an internment camp near Takyo, But Mrs. Benedict is not at all reassured by word from her son, a U. S. sailor captured at Guam.

Mrs. Henedict thinks that cer-tain facts in the letter belle its 'don't you worry, mother, I'm all light" tone. For Instance: Donald requested a pair of shoes, sire 814. and he wears a totally different size. He also said he'd like some coffee and his mother remembers he's always despised it.

Other than that, the letter declares the writer to be "well fed, well house and well treated."

SALES TAX BATTLE DROPPED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 - The fight for a federal retail sales tax was abandoned for the time being at least today as the senate prepared for its third day of debate on a new revenue bill.

Senator Byrd (D-Va) told reporters he and other sales tax proponents had dropped plans for an amendment providing for such a levy despite the treasury's opposition. He served notice the proposal would be revived if Secre-tary of the Treasury Morgenthau carries out his announced intention to ask congress for a new $6,000,000,000 tax bill after work is completed on the current measure.

"It is very unfortunate the treasury's grim determination to defeat a sales tax in this hill will necessitate another bill in three months," Byrd declared. "If a sales tax coould have been adopted in the first place, it would have saved a great deal of confusion and loss of time,"

Morgenthau recently announced that the treasury wanted to boost total annual taxation to $30,000,-000,000 to help finance the war. The present bill, he estimated, would bring annual collections to $21,000,000,000.
